ANG 1053- English Grammar 2

Descriptif

This course is intended for students who have reached an advanced level of proficiency in English and who wish to further improve their grammar, both written and spoken. We will address various topics in English grammar, including those that present the greatest difficulty to students in their essay writing. In class, students will have an opportunity to discuss examples not found in the textbook, to revisit trouble spots in the homework and to practice the kinds of questions that come up on exams. Attendance is crucial.
